Police have arrested a man from Susner in Agar Malwa district for receiving cyber fraud money in his bank account, linked to an online investment scam conducted through a social media platform, an officer said on Friday.

According to SP (cyber cell) Sabyasachi Saraf, a Bijalpur area resident had lodged a complaint on August 8 that unknown people had added him to a social media group and lured him into investing through a website promising high returns from the stock market.

Believing the offer, the complainant transferred over Rs 1.41 crore in three to four months. However, the money was siphoned off into various accounts. Taking the matter seriously, a case under sections 318 (4), 319 (2) of the BNS and Section 66D of the IT Act was registered. Investigators immediately traced the accounts and froze the transferred amount. During the probe, it was found that Rs 4.5 lakh from siphoned off money had been transferred to a bank account in Agar Malwa district. Acting swiftly, the police team arrested the accused, identified as Prashant Nagar, a resident of Susner in Agar Malwa district, from his shop.

The officials have cautioned citizens against falling prey to such online scams. People are advised to verify the authenticity of websites before investing in stock markets, not to allow others to operate their social media accounts and to remain alert about online money-making advertisements. In case of fraud, the victims should immediately contact the cyber helpline number 1930 or file a complaint at www.cybercrime.gov.in Three friends stabbed a 28-year-old youth to death during a drunken brawl in the Hirannagar police station area late on Thursday night. All four were consuming liquor together when an argument broke out between them over money. The altercation soon escalated, leading to the murder.

According to the police, the deceased was identified as Umesh alias Bablu Joshi, a resident of Kabithkedi. The accused were identified as Cheena Thakur, his brother Pappi and their friend Ashish Chauhan. The group was consuming alcohol near a drain when a heated argument broke out over money. In a drunken rage, the trio attacked Umesh with knives, causing him injuries. He was rushed to MY hospital where he succumbed to his injuries. Police said that after being stabbed, Umesh tried to run a short distance to save himself, but the attackers chased him and killed him. Ashish Chauhan was detained the same night, while Cheena Thakur and his brother Pappi were arrested on Friday afternoon. Victim lived with the accused

Preliminary investigations revealed that Umesh often stayed with Cheena and Pappi and they frequently consumed liquor together. Cheena financially supported Umesh who did not work. About 10 days ago, Umesh’s ancestral house in Scheme No. 51 was sold. On Thursday night, Cheena reportedly demanded a share of that money from Umesh. When Umesh refused, the accused, along with Ashish, stabbed him multiple times, leading to his death.

SAIMS takes a big stride in healthcare innovation

Our Staff Reporter

In a pioneering step towards healthcare innovation, Sri Aurobindo Institute of Medical Sciences (SAIMS), Indore, is set to become the first private medical college in the country to produce isotopes at its own cyclotron plant. The isotopes, including gallium-based PET tracers, will be created using liquid gallium and will play a vital role not only in advanced diagnostic procedures but also in treatment with the added advantage of being free from side-effects.

Dr Vinod Bhandari, founder chairman of Sri Aurobindo University gave this information, while inaugurating an awareness campaign under National Pharmacovigilance Week organized by the department of pharmacology.

To become first in India to produce isotopes at its own cyclotron plant

He said that in line with Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s vision of a developed India, SAIMS was introducing revolutionary measures to provide patients with world-class medical facilities. Highlighting the institute’s role in drug safety, Dr Bhandari added that the Government of India had designated SAIMS as the first Regional Pharmacovigilance Centre in Madhya Pradesh under its pharmacovigilance programme. In the first phase, SAIMS had reported over 6,000 adverse drug reactions from 13 centres to the National Centre (IPC Ghaziabad) and the WHO Uppsala Monitoring Centre in Sweden. This data was being used by national and global health agencies for research and improved patient safety.

Awareness through scientific sessions: The campaign coordinators, Dr Chhaya Goel and Dr Pooja Reddy, explained that the objective of the National Pharmacovigilance Week was to make patients more aware of the possible side-effects of medicines and encourage them to report adverse drug reactions. They further clarified that adverse drug reactions did not reflect negatively on the doctor, but instead provided crucial information that helped ensure safer and more effective prescriptions in the future.

Under the campaign, awareness sessions, scientific workshops and interactive programmes are being conducted to engage patients and healthcare professionals alike.
